

Wondering about what STEM might look like in your setting?

The emerging languages of mathematics

© Catherine McCluskey

This series of 4 professional learning workshops will engage educators in noticing, wondering about, and engaging with the emerging languages of mathematics young children reveal through their play.

Workshop dates:

Friday, 3rd November, 12pm - 4pm
Friday, 10th November, 12pm - 4pm
Friday, 17th November, 12pm - 4pm
Friday, 24th November, 12pm - 4pm

Location:

Thebarton Community Centre
Cnr South Rd and Ashwin Pde
Torrensville

Cost: $300.00 per participant

Register at:

<http://ow.ly/BKNN30f5f7F>

Catherine McCluskey is an early childhood lecturer at the University of South Australia and is a PhD candidate through Macquarie university where she is researching the embodiment of young children's mathematical thinking through play contexts.

Catherine has recently taught children in the early years of school in a Reggio Emilia inspired context and was a Numeracy Consultant with Catholic Education South Australia.

Gowrie
South Australia